

Pediatrics Overview

Northwest Eye Surgeons has expertise in the full spectrum of specialized eye care, from infants to the elderly. Our pediatrics practice works with children and their families on developmental eye problems, such as congenital cataracts and inherited diseases, as well as infectious eye diseases. We take great care in involving the entire family in the assessment and treatment of the child's eye problem, and work closely with the child's physician to enable positive outcomes.

Based on the child's need, we offer a variety of therapies - including eye muscle exercises, patching therapy or surgery for strabismus; surgery for pediatric cataracts or lid abnormalities. We continue to monitor and adjust treatment for each individual child as they progress and age. Our staff are skilled in treating children, at every age and stage, and offer a warm and comfortable environment.
